

Karl Stock has worked with the Bureau of Reclamation since 2001, currently serving as Acting Director of Reclamation's Policy Office. This office provides policy development, oversight and internal controls for a wide range of mission and administrative programs, including asset management, economics, planning, cost recovery, environmental compliance, the WaterSMART program, human resources, and civil rights. Prior to his 13 years in a number of different roles in the Policy Office, Karl worked in various capacities in the Provo, Utah Area Office in the Upper Colorado Region. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Economics, and a Master's degree in Public Administration.

